Join the College of Health Solutions for the inaugural Translational Science Conference: Optimizing Teams for Better Health Outcomes on Nov. 18 – 19.

Researchers, practitioners, students and community partners from diverse disciplines and industries are invited to share ideas, explore challenges and discuss best practices in forming and growing effective teams that use the transdisciplinary team science approach to improve health outcomes.

Hosted by the Affinity Networks and Translational Teams initiative at the College of Health Solutions.

Questions? Contact CHSevents@asu.edu

Learn more and register
Scan the code to register or visit chs.asu.edu/antt

Featured speakers

Joshua LaBaer, executive director, ASU Biodesign Institute

Kyle Squires, dean and professor, Ira A. Fulton Schools of Engineering at ASU

Bob England, former director, Maricopa County Department of Public Health

Bill Riley, professor, ASU College of Health Solutions

Nancy Cooke, professor, Ira A. Fulton Schools of Engineering at ASU

Jeni Cross, professor and director, Institute for Research in the Social Sciences, Colorado State University