Togzhan Kassenova is a Nonresident Fellow at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and an expert on nuclear politics and WMD nonproliferation. During her talk, she introduces engineers turned diplomats, villagers turned activists and scientists turned pacifists who worked toward disarmament. With the fall of the Soviet Union, Kazakhstan in Central Asia suddenly found itself with the world’s fourth largest nuclear arsenal on its lands. Come hear as Dr. Kassenova describes how Kazakhstan said no to the most powerful weapons in human history. With thousands of nuclear weapons still present around the world, the story of how Kazakhs gave up their nuclear inheritance holds urgent lessons for global security.
