A. Wade Smith and Elsie Moore | Memorial Lecture
on Race Relations

The A. Wade Smith and Elsie Moore Memorial Lecture is the only endowed lecture on race relations with an over-20-year history at any college or university. Both Smith and Moore devoted their lives to the idea of racial parity. Today, we continue that work by honoring their legacy.

About the speaker

Emmy Award-winning journalist Jemele Hill is the co-founder of Lodge Freeway Media and a contributing writer for The Atlantic. Her 2022 autobiography, "UPHILL: A Memoir," is a character-rich, unapologetically provocative narrative in which Hill reveals her tumultuous childhood, complicated family dynamics and life-saving journey into journalism.

Hill's 20-plus year journalism career has included stops at ESPN and several reputable newspapers. She is known for addressing topical and controversial issues with humorous, candid commentary.

Her many accolades include two NAACP Awards in 2022 for her podcast "Jemele Hill is Unbothered," and the Journalist of the Year Award in 2018 from the National Association of Black Journalists.
