

Can War Be Just?

Religious and Ethical Responses to the Wars in Gaza and Ukraine

Recovering Truth: Religion, Journalism and Democracy in a Post-Truth Era

A special panel discussion

Michael Broyde
Professor of Law
Emory University

Anand Gopal
Assistant Research Professor and Journalist
Arizona State University

Perry Hamalis
Cecelia Schneller Mueller Professor of Religion
North Central College

Sohail Hashmi
Chair of International Relations
Mount Holyoke College

Moderators

John Carlson
Director
Center for the Study of Religion and Conflict

Tracy Fessenden
Director of Strategic Initiatives
Center for the Study of Religion and Conflict

Recovering Truth: Religion, Journalism and Democracy in a Post-Truth Era is generously supported by the Henry Luce Foundation's Program in Theology.

October 10, 2024

3:30–5:30 p.m. MST

Marston Exploration Theater

ASU Tempe campus

781 S. Terrace Rd., Tempe, AZ 85281

What do religious and ethical traditions say about the morality of war, and how do they hold up in the face of modern conflicts? How does the media environment influence our understanding of justice in war?

Join us for a compelling discussion on the morality of war as we explore the devastating conflicts in Ukraine and Gaza.

Our panel of experts will delve into ways religious and ethical traditions guide our understanding of war in today's world. We will also examine how the media shapes public perceptions of justice. Don't miss this opportunity to gain deeper insights and engage with pressing moral and political issues.

Register today

asuevents.asu.edu/justwar