

Disability and Advocacy in Higher Education

2021 Fall Colloquium Series

“Full Sp[ ]Ed Ahead: Expanding the IDEA Idea to Let All Students Ride the Same Bus”

October, 3 p.m. - 4 p.m. Zoom

Stephen A. Rosenbaum

Frank C. Newman Lecturer, School of Law & Visiting Research Scholar, Othering & Belonging Institute

Steve's scholarship interests are in the intersection of disability and immigration status, international human rights, special education, clinical legal education, lay advocacy and childcare availability amongst Mexican indigenous farmworker families. His social justice courses at the law school focus on the acquisition of professional skills, including community legal education, policy advocacy and culturally competent lawyering. Steve, who currently serves as pro bono counsel with La Raza Centro Legal, has litigated a number of state and federal cases on behalf of undocumented immigrants, as well as cases affecting migratory worker families within the United States and unaccompanied minors at the border.
