“The History of U.S. Drug Policy”

David Courtwright and William Rorabaugh

David Courtwright earned his Ph.D. in History at Rice University. He is currently Presidential Professor at the University of North Florida. He has authored three books on drug use and drug policy; two books on the problems of frontier environments (many of which involve men who drank too much); and one book on the history of the culture war. Among his drug histories are “Dark Paradise, Addicts Who Survived”, and “Forces of Habit”. In 2016-2017 he will be completing a global history of pleasure, vice, and capitalism under the auspices of an NEH Public

William Rorabaugh received his PhD from UC Berkeley in 1976. He has taught US History at the University of Washington in Seattle since 1976 and is the author of six books, including “The Alcoholic Republic” (1979), “Berkeley at War: The 1960s” (1989), and “American Hippies” (Cambridge, 2015). He is now working on a new short history

Monday, February 8, 2016
6 - 7 pm
Coor Hall 4403

Designed to introduce PTL students and members of the community to local and national leaders from a variety of fields, the PTL Dialogue Series provides lively presentations and opportunities for discussion about a range of topics.

A unit of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences