

RELIGION, NATIONALISM, AND THE FUTURE OF DEMOCRACY

A CONVERSATION WITH
PETER BEINART

Religious and ethnic nationalisms are resurgent in democracies around the world. How does the media cover these movements, and does its focus on conflict and violence fuel civic strife? Are there other stories about religion and democratic culture that should be told?

Peter Beinart, contributing editor at The Atlantic and associate professor of journalism and political science at the City University of New York, is one of the few journalists who addresses these issues through a comparative approach. John Carlson (Center for the Study of Religion and Conflict) and Kristin Gilger (Cronkite School) will moderate the conversation.
