

'How to Have a Civil Conversation Across the Political Divide'

with Nadine Strossen and Judge Michael Mukasey

Nadine Strossen, a chaired professor at New York Law School, is a widely recognized expert on constitutional law and civil liberties. The former president of the American Civil Liberties Union (1991 to 2008), she now serves on the ACLU's National Advisory Council as well as the Advisory Boards of the Electronic Privacy Information Center, Foundation for Individual Rights in Education and Heterodox Academy.

Michael B. Mukasey served as the 81st attorney general of the United States, the nation's chief law enforcement officer, from November 2007 to January 2009. During that time, he oversaw the U.S. Justice Department and advised on critical issues of domestic and international law. Judge Mukasey is now counsel in the litigation department at Debevoise and Plimpton LLP.

Thursday, Jan. 31, 2019
5 p.m.

Old Main, Carson Ballroom

RSVP at

www.eiseverywhere.com/mukaseystrossen

Free catered reception to follow from 6:15-7 p.m.

Strossen and Mukasey will have a conversation that models a civil, mutually respectful and vigorous exchange of ideas on issues that challenge American society. These speakers, intellectually and politically opposed on many of the issues, will demonstrate that lively civil discourse is possible, even when we deeply disagree about the issues.

Co-sponsored by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Mass Communication and the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law

scetl.asu.edu • 480-965-0155

@asuscetl @ASU_SCETL

ASU School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership
Arizona State University