AMERICANS AND THE NAZI THREAT

What did Arizonans know?

While media around the country provided frequent and vivid accounts of rising Nazi brutality in Europe, Americans tended to focus inward in the 1930–40s. Step back in time with the Museum and local experts to explore headlines and artifacts from that time period in Arizona, which will include articles unearthed by volunteer citizens and historians. Panelists also will discuss some surprising actions taken by nearby communities, including American Indian tribes.
