Family History Writing Family Members, Places and Events

Saturday, December 10, 2016 | 10 a.m. – 1 p.m. lunch provided
Burton Barr Central Library | 1221 N. Central Ave., Phoenix, Ariz.

Family History Writing provides an opportunity to develop tools for writing about memorable family members, places or events. Presenter Duane Roen discusses the family experiences that offer rich material for writing and shares strategies for beginning the writing process.

Through a hands-on activity, you will respond in writing to a series of questions designed to generate concrete details about family stories and be invited to share your writing with the group. In turn, the group will be encouraged to offer constructive feedback that will help you further develop your writing.

You are encouraged to bring your laptop.

ASU faculty will be on-hand to assist during the “drop-in writing hour” from noon – 1 p.m. You are welcome to bring any written document for review.
